A Am A Am

I walked in with my head held high
Took a pause when I saw her face
Through the crowd I catch her eye
I had to stop and take a breath feeling like I could reach the sky angel's eyes and filled with grace with her smile I thought I would try

This was the moment to be my best

I strolled up to state my case
Mystery was the game she played
As I turned to make my escape
When our eyes met then I knew

It was clear I was out of pace
Hanging on every word she said
She asked if I felt out of place
There was one thing I had to do

Sometimes it pays to take your time
Anticipation and a little dread
Held in the moment held in time
She gave me pause on that fateful day

Listen to that voice in your mind
Her words echoed through my head
I heard my heart speaking to my mind
She said I love you and I had to stay
